

ANOTHER SUICIDE RECORDED IN COUNTY

JAMES ARLEDGE WORRIED OVER LEG INJURY SHOTS SELF THRU HEAD IN BARN IN JACKSON-TWP

Former Columbus Resident Comits Act With Borrowed Revolver, Said He Planned to Shoot Ground-hog; Had Been Living With Mother-in-law Since Last Winter.

The fourth suicide within the confines of Pickaway-co within the past few months was recorded Thursday afternoon when James Arledge, 42, shot himself through the head with a borrowed .32 caliber revolver at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sara Arledge, 93, well known Jackson-twp pioneer. Arledge took his life in a barn less than 50 feet from the homestead where he said he was going to watch for a ground-hog.

Mr. Arledge, a native of the Adelphi vicinity, had been living in Columbus at 899 S. Wall-st., until eight months ago when he and his wife, Mrs. Florence Arledge, came to Jackson-twp to remain through the winter with the aged Mrs. Arledge whose health had become impaired. While hunting about the vicinity of the Arledge home last November, he stumbled and sprained his left knee. That injury became chronic and it was thought through worry on account of this injury, he took his life. Only last Sunday he underwent an operation on the knee.

SHOT IN HEAD
The man took his life by shooting himself through the head while holding the revolver with both hands. Mr. Arledge was left handed and when he was found lying on his back in the barn the death-weapon was grasped in this hand. The right hand thrown across his body disclosed powder burns making authorities believe he held the revolver with both hands, the left to hold the revolver and pull the trigger with the right to direct the barrel.

The bullet entered the head just in front of the left ear and came out the right side of the head behind the ear. Death was instantaneous.

FOUND BY GIRL
Dorothy Arledge, 9, a niece of the deceased man, playing about the house, heard the shot and ran to the barn thinking that Mr. Arledge had shot a groundhog. When she turned the corner of the barn she saw the body on the ground and ran for help. The office of Prosecuting Attorney E. L. Crist was notified, when Coroner C. E. Bowers could not be reached, being in Columbus, and Crist notified Sheriff Charles Radcliff to hurry to the scene. He followed later and after a while the coroner arrived.

Authorities after the investigation expressed the belief that Mr. Arledge planned to take his life two other times but just as he was prepared his nerve failed him. The revolver which took his life was borrowed from "Uncle Bill" Phillips, a neighbor. Arledge had borrowed the weapon two other times saying that he wanted to shoot a ground-hog. The third time he suicided.

Harold Rader, West Jefferson funeral director, was called to take care of the body.

MAN ARRESTED FOR MURDERS

Former District Attorney, Is Charged With Slaying Politician, Publisher.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 22—David H. Clark, 33, former deputy district attorney, was booked on a charge of suspicion of murder early today in connection with the slaying of Charles Crawford, prominent politician, and Herbert Spencer, managing editor of the "Critic of Critics," a local magazine.

Clark refused to make a statement to District Attorney Buron Fitts.

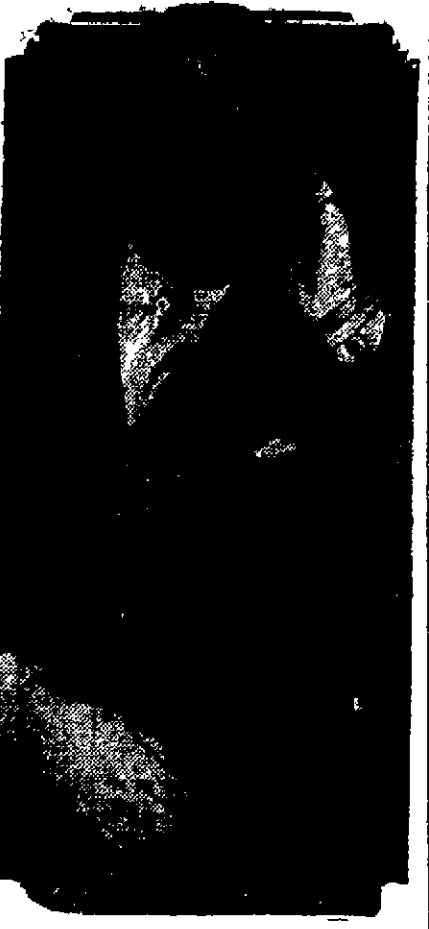

"Well, what do you have to say?" asked Fitts as Clark was brought before him.

"Buron," Clark replied, "I may appear outwardly calm to you and the other gentlemen here, but inwardly I am in a turmoil. I have nothing to say now. What difference will a few hours make?"

"Will you say that you did not kill Crawford and Spencer?" Fitts asked.

THREE KILLED AT LONDON, O.

Visit to Columbus Cut Short For Denver, Col., Family; Hit at Big 4 Crossing

LONDON, O., May 22—Two women and a three-year-old girl, all from Denver, Colo., were dead here today after a visit which cut short Mrs. Ralph Bennett's trip to visit her mother who is associated with a carnival show playing an engagement in Columbus.

The dead were: Mrs. Bennett, 25; her daughter, and Mrs. Mary Kelley, nurse for Mrs. Bennett's children. A year-old girl was seriously injured and taken to a Columbus hospital for treatment.

Struck by a passenger train when they started to drive their car across a Big Four crossing here, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Kelley were killed instantly. Their car was knocked into a ditch and demolished.

Mrs. Bennett's daughter died enroute to a hospital.

Letters found in the car convinced officials that Mrs. Bennett was enroute to Columbus to visit her mother, who is with the Model Shows of America.

Her husband, leader of the Louisville "Seven Aces" orchestra, was expected here today to make arrangements for the funeral.

TRAFFIC COURT IS SATURDAY

Two Men Haled Before Mayor, and One Before Squire Fricke for Violation.

Traffic court will be held by Mayor B. T. Hedges and Squire E. C. Fricke Saturday at 2 p. m. when three persons, all ticketed by Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell appear for hearings.

Roy Walker and Arthur Walker, both of the south end, are scheduled before the Mayor for reckless operation and both were arrested while driving on S. Scioto-st. Roy drives a Chevrolet roadster and Arthur a Chevrolet coupe.

William Steinmetz of Stewart-ave, Columbus is scheduled for hearing before Fricke after being arrested allegedly driving on the wrong side of the overhead railroad on the Columbus-pk.

NEW YORK IS REACHED BY AIR FLOTILLA

First Division of Planes Sighted Over Long Island This Afternoon

LEAVES DAYTON AT 5

One Plane Wrecked In New York State

NEW YORK, May 22.—The first division of the army's giant flotilla of airplanes assembling here for extensive maneuvers, appeared over Long Island at 1:05 p. m. today.

The first group sighted was a bevy of 39 observation planes which circled Mitchell Field, preparing to land. Another group of 27 pursuit planes passed over Curtis Wright airport on Long Island about the same time apparently enroute to Mitchell Field.

FAIRFIELD, AIR PORT, FAIRFIELD, O., May 22.—The army's giant air flotilla roared out of Wright Field and Fairfield air depot here early today nosing their way eastward to New York City.

Various units of the 672 plane formation began taking to the air at 5 a. m. this morning, enroute to the eastern city, units of the flotilla will be guests briefly at Buffalo, New York, Rochester, N. Y., Aberdeen, Md., Butler, Pa., Cleveland and Middletown, O., and Bolling Field at Washington D. C.

PITTSBURGH - BUTLER AIRPORT, BUTLER, Pa., May 22.—Roaring out of the west after their "attack" on the city of Chicago, 51 U. S. army pursuit planes, a section of the air armada, swarmed above here today, and then landed, two and three at a time, for a brief refueling period.

The group designated to stop here prior to continuing the flight to New York is scheduled for a three-hour stop-over, airport attaches said.

NEW YORK, May 22.—A Dublin byplane cracked up in a gully while landing in Roosevelt Field this afternoon with the first division of the army's giant flotilla of airplanes that are taking part in extensive maneuvers.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 22.—Seventy-seven army planes landed here today, enroute from Dayton to New York for the air maneuvers.

The flight eastward was without incident except for the fact that one plane developed motor trouble over Erie, Pa., and was forced to land. Two others landed with the disabled craft, effected repairs, and continued on here landing within a few minutes of the original group.

QUESTION DOCTORS IN DEATH OF FIVE
CHICAGO, May 22.—Doctors who attended the five persons who died in the home of Mrs. Margaret Summers the past three years were to be questioned today. Mrs. Summers admitted yesterday to the police that she was the beneficiary of their insurance policies totaling $7,700 but said she paid most of the premiums.

The investigation was started when traces of poisoning were found in the death of her young nephew, Thomas Meyers. The body of Thomas Summers, the woman's husband, has been exhumed for examination. Others who died in her home were her brother Louis Meyers, Thomas Lanagan and William Beiman.

ENGINE CRASHES
TARENTUM Pa. May 22.—The engine of a north bound passenger train was reported to have overturned panning the engineer beneath it when the train struck a stone on the track at Braeburn Pa., near here today according to first information received here.

SENDS S. O. S.
NEW YORK, May 22.—The S. O. S. for aid early today reporting her propeller had been lost during a heavy fog. The ship gave her position as off Boston. The coast guard patrol boat Active has been dispatched to her rescue.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY PRAISED; AGAIN TONIGHT

"The New Poor" Wins Plaudits of Overflow Crowd at Auditorium

CAST TO CHANGE

Director and All, Deserve Much Credit

Circleville high school's senior class play, "The New Poor," under the direction of J. Wylie Fetherlin, before a packed house at the high school auditorium, Thursday evening, was staged with great success. With every performer playing his role exceptionally well, the production was declared to be another successful high school play, which is nothing unusual, under Mr. Fetherlin's direction.

For the first time the large audience saw the new curtain and other stage equipment, recently given to the school, which aided greatly in furnishing an appropriate setting for the scene, which was laid in the home of the rich Welbys. The play opens on Saturday afternoon, and Mrs. Welby and daughters Connie and Betty are found much depressed because their staff of servants have left without a minute's notice. Gertrude Lahman in the role of Mrs. Welby, gave everyone a true impression of a rich widow. Mildred Ritt and Margaret Kliney, as the two daughters, very well depicted their parts, presenting charming appearances and much personality.

PARTS PLAYED WELL
Another daughter of Mrs. Welby's, Alice, played by Doris Peters, arrived on the scene with a new staff of servants, including a Grand Duke, Princess, a Count and a Prince, who, in reality, were of the common class of Columbus Miss Peters capably and exceptionally well portrayed her part of a happy-go-lucky. John Hegele, as the Grand Duke, capably handled his difficult role of a deposed Russian Duke, with much ease as also did his staff, including Princess Irina played by Martha Osborn. Count Ivan, in the person of Leo McClure, and Prince Vladimir, Paul Radcliff, who descended from a flowery title to the position of chauffeur at the Welbys.

A visitor at the Welby household, Mary Maudsley, portrayed by Eloise Eldridge was a difficult role to play and Miss Eldridge handled (Continued On Page Two.)

CINCL. HEARS CRASH ECHO

Members of Robert and Hall Brokerage House Indicted By Federal Jury.

CINCINNATI, O., May 22.—An echo of the $1,500,000 crash of the brokerage house of Robert and Hall here was heard today when Jesse Nevins Roberts and Walter P. Hall, partners in the defunct firm, were indicted by the federal grand jury.

The grand jury also reported two indictments against Henry A. Reif, former office manager for the brokers.

The three joint indictments accused the partners of embezzling money and securities belonging to customers. A fourth joint indictment charges the defendant with selling customers stock without the owners' consent.

SALESMAN DIES
COLUMBUS, O. May 22.—H. A. Hoult, 75, of Columbus, a salesman, died suddenly today in the office of H. A. Rettig state purchasing agent at the statehouse here. Heart trouble was assigned as the cause.

Hoult was stricken as he was leaving Rettig's office after presenting some coffee samples in connection with bids for proposed purchases for state institutions. Harry P. Wolfe, local banker and newspaper publisher is a brother-in-law of the deceased man.

BLUEBEARD AND SUSPECT

Perry, the bluebeard brakeman, who has been the object of a nation-wide search since September 30, last year, when Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett (inset) of Chicago, one of his wives, was found murdered on the Lac de Flambeau Indian reservation in Wisconsin. At right is Frank J. Morgan, arrested in San Francisco and partially identified by photographs—such as these two—as in reality Perry.

Convict-Witness Explains Threat

COLUMBUS, May 22.—A dramatic rivaling in realism the plight of Chicago-Grate, young Dayton convict on trial for his life in connection with the Ohio Penitentiary fire of April 21, 1930, was to continue its enactment today as James Maloney, 26, of Cincinnati, returned to Franklin-co criminal courtroom with his damaging testimony as-witness for the state.

Maloney, "the candle man" under emotional pressure of wholesale disapproval of his mates in the Ohio pen, told his story Thursday with a quiet tensely which belied the electric quivers which raced through his blood.

"I ain't no dub—I know what this means," he told a reporter after a five-minute recess in the trial.

"But you know, I just feel the right thing to do," he said.

GRATE HAD KNIFE
The jurors were told of an attempt by Grate to "get him" shortly after the fire. Coming out of the washroom in the prison chapel, Grate made a lunge at him with a knife. Gibson was with him, and also some others. Maloney said.

Maloney broke through the bunch and fled to Capt. Lockhart in the guard room, he said. A plea that he be lodged in solitary confinement for safety's sake, was granted.

Furtive glances, half terror, half defiance, were shot at Grate by the witness as he told his story. Grate's face bore a quizzical expression of careful attention.

He broke into the trance of a smile as Maloney recounted the Thursday after the fire, when he said he came upon "Cotton" (as Grate was known) in the blacksmith shop sharpening a file on a grindstone.

Depicting a "come into my parlor said the spider" episode, Maloney was about to speculate on why Grate was whetting an edge on the grindstone when Defense Council John A. Connor offered a vehement objection.

Branding Maloney as "this fresh witness" Connor demanded that Maloney refrain from speculations and suggestions and that his statement be stricken from the records and disregarded by jury.

Judge Randall granted the objection and cautioned Maloney to merely answer questions as they were asked.

Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins was out of his chair in a trice and the court was treated to its third explosion of the day between state and defense.

The prosecution finally settled on a vehement recrimination of Connor's reference to Maloney as a "fresh witness."

Band Will Play at Community Parade Events Free of Charge

SOCIETY PAYS

Capes, Caps Orders Here Next Friday

Largely through the efforts of T. F. Jeffries, Circleville's organized school band, will be equipped with uniforms and bearing the school colors in time for an observation Day celebration here next Saturday. Circleville's Pumpkin Society, as ever on the lookout for the welfare of the city, and the community, unanimously passed a resolution proposed by Jeffries to purchase uniforms for the sixty-odd band members. The cost of the equipment was $500.

The equipment, purchased from The Lilley Co., of Columbus, was delivered to Mr. Jeffries yesterday at 10 a. m. May 22. It is time for distribution to band members, both boys and girls, for use in the Decoration Day parade, according to a stipulation in the contract.

BUY 72 OUTFITS
The Pumpkin Show society decided to buy 72 outfits because C. F. Zaenglein, director of the band, announces that within four members of the organization graduating this spring, a total of additional students plan to up band next fall and new uniforms will be needed.

Not only will this money be paid but a drum which had been selected will be replaced.

The cost of the uniforms is $10.00. The band is now in the process of selecting a drum. The band is now in the process of selecting a drum. The band is now in the process of selecting a drum.

The caps will be yellow with black flannel with the letters C. H. S. on the cap.

The drum major's outfit will be of red flannel with the letters C. H. S. on the front with gold buttons. The cap will carry a red plume. The drum major's baton will be silver with a gold head and ferrule, gold buttons and hand-turned walnut shaft.

When this band takes the stage spectators will certainly sit up and take notice.

APPEAR IN PARADE
The band will appear in the public appearance in Dayton, Ohio, and will be available for every occasion. The band is now in the process of selecting a drum.

The band is now in the process of selecting a drum. The band is now in the process of selecting a drum. The band is now in the process of selecting a drum.

Prof. Zaenglein announces that the band does not get together unless as yet, the students from the seventh grade to the seniors, are training diligently to be a success. This band has been drilling regularly in an effort to be able to march by on Saturday.

A band such as this, needs a deserving the support of every person in Circleville, and the Circleville Pumpkin Show society, every member thereof, desires the plaudits of every Circleville resident for the true spirit in this project of supplying uniforms was undertaken.

BETTMAN SIDES WITH UNIVERSITY

COLUMBUS, O., May 22.—Along with Miami University to the controversy with the West Portsmouth co-ed, Alton Gilbert Bettman, today declared that "the right of a university to drop a student for failure to meet reasonable standards seems to me to be inherent in all universities."

The opinion was addressed to Alfred H. Upham, president of Miami University after Bettman's official appointment by the university as a student body member. Bettman's assistance in obtaining a recent decision from the Supreme Court in favor of low scholarship.

IN THE MARKET BASKET

By the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the Woman's Division of the President's Emergency Committee for employment.

FAMILY FOOD GUIDE

Every meal, Milk for children, bread for all.
Every day, Cereal in porridge or pudding. Potatoes, tomatoes (or oranges) for children, a green or yellow vegetable, milk for all.
Two to four times a week, lean meat, fish or poultry, or cheese, tomatoes for all, dried beans and peas or peanuts, eggs (especially for children).

Cheese is one of the outstanding protein foods which, in addition to being economical, bring variety and flavor to meals that otherwise might be savorless and uninteresting. The Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture points out in its weekly discussion of low cost foods.

The allowance for a family of five is from five to seven pounds of lean meat, liver, fish, cheese and eggs each week in the low cost food guide developed by the bureau. This is not a large quantity and it must be divided among the five groups and must be spread over seven days. It requires ingenuity to decide which ones to buy and how to use them in order to avoid undesirable monotony in serving inexpensive meals.

Comparatively speaking, the foods in this group are the highest in price. Consequently, the quantity of these foods in a dietary so inexpensive is less than is normally found in the average diet. Some proteins may be supplied in cheaper forms, but meat, cheese, fish and eggs can not be ignored. They add flavor, interest and efficient protein to a diet likely to become monotonous if made up largely of cereals and legumes.

The bureau calls attention to the fact that American cheese and cottage cheese are the two least expensive forms of cheese available in this country. The former is a commercial product made from milk and ripened, while the latter is usually home made and unripened. It has been estimated that an inch cube of American cheese has a fuel value greater than an egg, and equal to an ounce of porterhouse or sirloin steak, and that it supplies as much protein as the latter. The food value of cottage cheese is similar.

The theory that cheese causes intestinal disturbances has been entirely disproved in tests by the Department of Agriculture. The experiment showed that cheese, like meat, is well digested when properly prepared and is thoroughly assimilated.

Cheese is a concentrated food, consequently the best way to insure good digestion is to serve bread or other cereals with it, taking care to cook the cheese in such a way that it is soft and not leathery. High temperature makes cheese tough, so the bureau suggests that the cheese be grated and mixed through the food rather than spread across the top as is so often done in scalloped and baked dishes.

The popularity of macaroni and cheese is well founded the bureau says; the flavor is pleasing and the macaroni, which is a cereal product, supplies starch and carbohydrates which cheese lacks. But the nutrition experts of the bureau say that, to balance the meal, some food such as tomatoes, lettuce, spinach or fruit should be served with this dish and, in fact with all cheese dishes.

Mild flavored cheese may be eaten in quantity while the "sharper" varieties are more suitable for flavoring foods which lack savor. Cottage cheese, and, in fact, most American varieties of cheese are mild. Cottage cheese can be served in many pleasing ways other than as a salad, and the bureau has developed some interesting recipes for utilizing this inexpensive food. It may be used as a filler for sandwiches, combined with nuts, vegetables, relishes and meats. Cottage-cheese pie and Old Dutch Cheese Cake are two old favorites. It may also be made into a loaf and baked in the oven, made into patties and into balls that are fried in deep fat.

American cheese has innumerable uses, for it can be served with eggs, omelets, in rarebits, or baked with many vegetables. Today's menu introduces cheese in a bean loaf that is served with tomato sauce. This dish serving 5 persons can be made for 24 cents or thereabouts, depending on local food costs.

A FAMILY OF FIVE

Including father, mother, and three children should buy every week:
Bread 12 to 16 pounds.
Flour 1 to 2 pounds.
Cereal 4 to 6 pounds.
Whole fresh milk 23 to 28 quarts or canned unsweetened milk 23 to 28 tall cans.
Potatoes 15 to 20 pounds.
Dried beans, peas, peanut butter 1 to 2 pounds.
Tomatoes, fresh or canned, or citrus fruit 6 pounds.
Other vegetables (including some of green or yellow color) and inexpensive fruit 15 to 18 pounds.

Fat, such as bacon, butter, lard, margarine, salt pork, etc. 2 1-2 pounds.

Lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs (8 eggs approximate 1 pound) 5 to 7 pounds.
Eggs (for children) 8 eggs.
Coffee 1 pound.
Tea 1-4 pound.

MENU FOR ONE DAY

Breakfast
Oatmeal, top milk, toast, coffee, (adults), milk, (children).

Lunch
Cheese and bean loaf with tomato sauce, (poached egg for a young child), spinach, boiled onions, muffins.

Dinner
Creamed chipped beef, boiled potatoes, baked Indian pudding.

RECIPES
Cheese and bean loaf with tomato sauce.
1 lb. can kidney beans or 1 cup dried beans, cooked until tender.
1 cup grated cheese.
1 small onion.
1 cup soft bread crumbs.
Salt.
Pepper.

Put the beans and onion through a meat chopper. Add the cheese and seasoning and sufficient bread crumbs to make the mixture stiff enough to be formed into a roll. Bake in a moderate oven until delicately browned, basting with hot water combined with 2 tablespoons fat. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

Cottage Cheese Patties
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion.
2 tablespoons fat.
2 cups cottage cheese.
2 cups dry bread crumbs or 1 cup cooked rice and 1 cup bread crumbs.

1-4 cup peanut butter, salt.

Pepper.
Cook the onion in the fat until tender, but not brown. Mix with other ingredients and salt, and pepper to season. Form into flat cake and dust lightly with fine bread or cracker crumbs, or corn meal. Fry a delicate brown in a little fat in a hot frying pan. The mixture should be stiff since the cheese tends to soften during the cooking.

Dutch Cheese Cake
3 1-2 tablespoons flour.
2-3 cup sugar.
1-2 cup milk.
2 eggs.

1 cup cottage cheese.
Lemon juice and rind.
Mace or nutmeg.

Mix the cornstarch thoroughly with the sugar, slowly add the milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Take from stove and stir in the cottage cheese, well beaten eggs and flavoring. Bake in a shallow greased dish for 25 minutes in a moderate oven. This makes a very firm custard. Serve cold.

Baked Indian Pudding
1 quart milk.
1-3 cup yellow cornmeal.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-2 cup molasses.
1-2 to 1 teaspoon ginger.

Cook the milk, cornmeal, and salt in a double boiler for 20 minutes. Add the molasses and ginger, pour into a greased baking dish, and bake in a very moderate oven (about 300 F.) for 2 hours. Serve hot or cold, with or without milk.

SENIOR CLASS

her position as a detective story writer with much grace and ease. Her secretary, who eventually was discovered to be a detective, Kirk O'Farrell, in the person of Berlin Noble furnished the audience with many laughs during the evening. Berlin was at home on the stage and displayed exceptionally fine acting.

Amos Welby, a son of the rich widow, was an unusual type masculine character of about 40, and no other person could have handled the part better than did Robert Rooney. Rooney appeared as a very indignant chap and didn't care for foolishness. A friend of Amos', Mr. Gutteridge, played by Earl Milliron, appeared as a very smooth character, but was unearched by the Grand Duke as the thief of several famous paintings which were stolen from the Welby home.

Backstage work was handled by stage managers, John Himrod and Berlin Noble; prompters, Jeanette Bower and Mary Roth; electrician, Thomas Stoffer; properties, Don Rader; costumes, Phyllis Wagner and publicity, Lucille Dumm.

MUSIC IS GOOD
Excellent music for the occasion was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein, and by the Glee club, under Miss Helen Wittich. In an intermission period, Robert Reaney, president of the senior class, officially presented the new stage equipment from the classes of 1929, 1930 and 1931 to Principal E. I. Gephart, who accepted and thanked the classes for their useful donation. The play will be repeated this evening, at 8 p. m., with a new cast of familiar characters.

Sea's Comrades Are Together

AKRON, O.—Two old comrades of the sea, where Uncle Sam sends his youthful proteges to develop into fighting trim, will be in command of the Navy's newest dirigible and the world's largest airship, the Akron, when it takes its maiden flight here this summer.

The two men, who established a firm friendship years ago while inhaling "Old Briny" from the battleship and destroyer, are Lieutenant commander Charles E. Rosendahl and Lieutenant commander Herbert V. Wiley.

Curious as it may appear to the old tradition of the sea where a man becomes a captain and remains the master, these two commanders of the giant airship will trade the positions they formerly held while sailing the seven seas for the United States.

Rosendahl at one time was second officer on a destroyer which was manned by Wiley. The latter, however, becomes second officer in command of the Akron, which is to be in charge of Rosendahl.

Rosendahl and Wiley hold identical posts in the navy. In regard to the gigantic airship, however, Lieutenant commander Rosendahl will be captain of the craft, and Lieutenant commander Wiley will be the commander of the ship, or second officer.

Both Rosendahl and Wiley were commanders of the United States navy dirigible, Los Angeles, which was given to this nation by Germany following the World war as part of the reparations.

"Skipper" Rosendahl, a native of Clayburn, Texas, is a bachelor. He served as an officer on a destroyer during and immediately following the World war. His interest, however, soon turned to aviation.

He was third officer in charge of navigation, on the ill-fated naval airship, the Shenandoah, when it was wrecked near Ava, O., on Sept. 3, 1925. Rosendahl saved the lives of a half dozen men when he brought the rear section of the broken craft to the ground 10 miles from the point of the disaster by maneuvering it in an expert manner until it landed safely.

Following a period as captain of the Los Angeles, Rosendahl was on the Graf Zeppelin as a guest of Dr. Hugo Eckener when it made its first trans-Atlantic flight and again when it circled the globe.

Commander Wiley, born in Chillicothe, Mo., graduated from Annapolis a year after Rosendahl, and served on destroyers during the war. He also was a member of the Shenandoah crew but was not on the tragic flight.

The first public demonstration of how an airship can be picked up by an airship was given by the Los Angeles when Wiley was in command of the craft. The demonstration was held in connection with the National Air Races in Cleveland in 1929.

Wiley served as a naval observer on the first return flight the Graf Zeppelin made from America to Germany. Until assigned to the Akron, Wiley was communication officer of the battleship, the Tennessee.

ROTARIANS ENJOY GOLFING MEETING

Golf was enjoyed by Rotarians Thursday afternoon at the Pickaway Country Club, where they spent the afternoon before holding the weekly meeting at the Club House, in the evening.

Thursday was an ideal day for golfing and over 40 attended the meeting and most of the members tried their hand at the game even for just one hole.

At seven o'clock the members answered the call of the dinner bell and everyone with good appetites after their exercise did justice to a fine meal served on the spacious veranda.

The evening was spent in general discussion, and attendance buttons were awarded to the following members, Mack Parrett Jr., and S. G. Rader 1 year; Nelson Sweyer and Robert Criswell 2 years; Frank Barnhill, Ward Robinson and Meeker Terwilliger, 3 years; Fred C. Clark, 7 years and 9 year buttons to Harry Stevenson and Robert Brehmer.

A KNIGHT COMES FLYING
Illustrated by Eustace L. Adams
© 1931, by The Daily Press, Inc.

Dave Ordway, wealthy, young aviator, makes a forced landing in an orange grove in the hinterland of Florida. Looking for the owner to pay for the damage, Dave comes upon two beautiful girls in overalls. Joan Marbury, with the aid of her cousin, Sally, has been running the plantation since her father's death. Fearing the wrath of Mueller, owner of the adjoining groves, when he learns of the damage to his trees, the girls urge Dave to leave. He insists upon reimbursing Mueller, and when he learns Mueller has been molesting the girls, he is more anxious than ever to meet him. Just then Mueller's plane flies by.

CHAPTER III.
"I S this man Mueller's place on a river or a lake?" he asked as he rejoined Sally. "I didn't see any water from the air."

"There's no water anywhere near it," she said. "It's the same sort of country as this. Groves, scrubland and jungle where the rains collect in the Summer and Fall."

"Do you know where his pilot goes in that plane?" he persisted. She shook her head. Dave was silent for several seconds, his face very thoughtful.

"I wonder," he frowned, "why he has an amphibian, a plane that can land or take off from either water or the ground. When he bought that kind of a ship he intended to do a lot of flying over the water."

"There are thousands of lakes throughout the center of the State," said Sally, "and the Everglades aren't far to the south of us. But I don't know why he should want to land there."

"His pilot was certainly interested in the wreck of my 'Wasp,'" Dave mused. "He gave it a mighty careful examination from the air before he went on to friend Mueller's."

"Oh, I hope that man won't come over while you're here!" said Sally, uneasily. "He won't have to," Dave assured her. "I'm going over to interview him. If I get any more curious about that bird, I'll begin to itch all over!"

Joan materialized out of the dimness of the house, cool and beautiful in her simple wash dress. "I've told Hannah to put on an extra plate for dinner," she informed Dave unexpectedly. "After sundown you can walk down to the cross-roads grocery to telephone, if you wish. It's nearly three miles, so much too far to go while the sun is up."

Interference
"You're altogether too good," he protested half-heartedly, "if simply haven't the conscience to stay after crashing in on you like this."

"Hannah has her orders," she said succinctly, helping herself to a glass of orangeade. "Tell me, Miss Marbury," ventured Dave, "is this Mueller personally really making things unpleasant for you?"

"He is," she admitted carelessly. "But if you don't mind, I'd rather not talk about him. I'm just dying to know about the new plays on Broadway and about the newest books and pictures and music."

"Fair enough," he shrugged. "I'll tell you what little I know about them when I come back from Mueller's. I might as well get that job of work over with."

sibility. Given a case, then, where the management has become impersonal, it is natural to suppose that a consolidation plan would receive ready attention. A good price clinches the bargain.

On the other hand, a business conducted under direct and positive control and where the personal element figures to an important degree is not so much machinery to be battered back and forth but a life work which yields a great deal more satisfaction than dividend checks even can. The merchants and manufacturers of this sort will prove beyond question that the independent can compete on more than equal terms with his large rivals.

Failure and Success
ARE you discouraged by failure? Then you will fail. Most of the little failures and little successes are unimportant successes in the battle of life. They are the maneuvering, the testing of the opposing lines, the finding of weak spots, or in the zest of skirmish won, it is well to remember that the greatest battle is yet to be fought. The man who is stricken in heart by the little defeats and the man who is pained in mind by the little victories will be on the par when the real test comes.

Our little failure and little successes are about equally willing to serve us. They will be very useful if we will give them the chance, but if we accept either blindly, as the gift of fate and circumstance, we might as well quit the fight.

The man who, in defeat, can put his finger on the cause of his defeat, the where, and why, and the how of it—is already well on the road to ultimate victory.

And the man who, in victory, knows how he won, and wherefore, will win again and more gloriously.

What promotes the merger idea more than anything else, it would seem, is the growth of an enterprise past the stage where personal supervision is practical or desirable. Let emphasis be placed on the later, because today there is less willingness to accept responsibility.

Facts About Mountain Fever

Vaccines Have Proved Successful in Curbing This Once Dreaded Disease, Says Authority.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D., U. S. Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health New York City.

IN a Senate debate recently there was a discussion of Rocky Mountain spotted fever. It stated that cases have been discovered in the East. These have been reported in Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, North Carolina, and Pennsylvania. This outbreak is an unusual occurrence, the disease is mainly confined to the West.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is a disease transmitted by the bite of a tick. Ticks or wood lice are insects of a peculiar nature. They take no vegetable food, living entirely on blood. They cling to the skin of man or cattle and are a great problem to sheep herders.

These insects appear in the first part of Spring, or as soon as the snow melts on the south slopes of the canyons. The disease is most prevalent at this time of the year. The infected person has fever. In about three days a skin eruption appears. It is spotted and appears first on the wrists, ankles and back. It soon covers the entire surface of the body.

The disease may be mild, but in many instances is quite severe. In 1927 one locality suffered a loss of 35 per cent of all victims of the disease. Outbreaks of this nature and loss of life attracted much investigation by the United States Public Health Service.

Due to the excellent work of Dr. R. E. Spencer, of the United States Public Health Service, a vaccine against Rocky Mountain spotted fever has been discovered. The vaccine is given as a preventive measure to all individuals who may be exposed to the disease.

This vaccine has now been used since 1924. The results thus far obtained are most gratifying. The fact that Rocky Mountain spotted fever has appeared in the East should cause alarm. The disease is adequately controlled and undoubtedly will soon be completely eradicated.

Answers to Health Queries
A. F. Q.—What causes the blood to break through the skin and what can be done to remedy this condition?

A.—The trouble is probably due to the hardening of the blood vessels. Nothing can be done for this disturbance. However, with hardening of the arteries or veins it is important to keep the blood pressure normal. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

H. G. M. Q.—I am bothered with an excess of saliva. What is the cause and what can be done for it?

A.—This is due to an acid condition of the system. Correct your diet and see that the intestinal tract is kept clear. An alkaline mouth wash should give increased comfort. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

B. F. A. Q.—I have a nerve ganglion in my right leg. Would this cause general nervousness?

A.—No. There is, however, some underlying reason or cause for nervousness and it would be wise to locate the source so that it may be definitely treated and cleared up. Have your doctor advise you.

H. J. S. Q.—What should a boy of 19, 5 ft. 7 in. tall, weigh?

A.—He should weigh about 140 pounds—this would be about the height as determined by examination of a large number of persons.

M. H. R. Q.—Is the pain of a lemon taken every night injurious to the stomach?

A.—No.

"Do you know where his pilot goes in that plane?" persisted Dave.

won't be easy in my mind until I considered it as anything but a succession of fashionable resorts where the people he knew hesitated for a few weeks in January and February. It had never occurred to him that a few miles from the gaudy fringe of beaches, clubs and great hotels, creeping and crawling things slid through the swamps, hardy settlers fought the jungle for their subsistence, Seminoles still lived in aboriginal simplicity and silence reigned over everything.

He had been utterly bored with the sophisticated existence into which he had slipped since that day six years before when Mr. Cabot, the family attorney, had looked him over nose-glasses and told him that David Ordway, Senior, had left him something more than four million dollars. The fortune, then, had seemed like a golden key to the pleasures of life, pleasures which his stern, hard-headed New England father had denied him lest he be softened and spoiled by ease and luxury.

The Grapevine
"I'll try not to make him mad," he assured her. "But how does the good Hannah know all this?"

"The niggers have a news system all their own," Hannah explained. "How do you get to Mueller's place?" he asked.

"It's about half a mile straight through the grove the way we came," said Joan, pointing. Dave strode toward the porch steps. Then, turning thoughtfully—

"If that grapevine news system is so good," he suggested, "you might ask your cook to find out where that pilot goes in his plane. The amphibian business intrigues me."

And with that he was gone, whistling a torch song as he crossed the sandy lawn in the direction of the groves.

Dave Ordway, still whistling cheerfully, walked along the shady aisles between the orange, grapefruit and tangerine trees, conscious only of the rare beauty of the oblique shafts of sunlight as they filtered through the bright green foliage and concentrated their beams upon the richly colored fruit with which the trees were laden. The spicy odor of the citrus mingled with that of dank vegetation and strange, tropic flowers of the jungle and formed in the entire a heady fragrance which blended harmoniously with his mood of the moment.

Only yesterday afternoon he had paced the after deck of Gerry Flemming's yacht, "Restless," bored with inactivity, fed up with bridge, tea and dancing, wishing that he were anywhere else in the world than just where he was. It had taken that final row with the impetuous Barbara Holworthy to make him realize that he couldn't stand the crowd one more minute.

Today he was in a brand-new world, where anything might happen. Flitting from South Hampton to Antibes and from Biarritz to Palm Beach, he had forgotten that Florida was still a frontier State. He had never before considered it as anything but a succession of fashionable resorts where the people he knew hesitated for a few weeks in January and February. It had never occurred to him that a few miles from the gaudy fringe of beaches, clubs and great hotels, creeping and crawling things slid through the swamps, hardy settlers fought the jungle for their subsistence, Seminoles still lived in aboriginal simplicity and silence reigned over everything.

He had been utterly bored with the sophisticated existence into which he had slipped since that day six years before when Mr. Cabot, the family attorney, had looked him over nose-glasses and told him that David Ordway, Senior, had left him something more than four million dollars. The fortune, then, had seemed like a golden key to the pleasures of life, pleasures which his stern, hard-headed New England father had denied him lest he be softened and spoiled by ease and luxury.

Taken For Granted
Now, however, the money was something to be taken for granted, as were his three motor cars, his airplane and his beloved express cruiser. The adventure, now anchored in the river at Jacksonville. To the amazement of his father's conservative friends and business associates, who had heard rumors of Dave's high play at roulette at Monte Carlo and at bacarat in the casinos of Juan-les-Pins, Biarritz, Le Touquet and Palm Beach, he had not squandered his money in a riotous orgy. Instead, he had invested it with surprising skill and such had been the success of his investments that he had actually increased his principal in spite of the apparent carelessness with which he pursued whatever he desired. But there was no thrill, now, to riches. Rather a boredom in the knowledge that whatever he wanted was his by the mere signing of a check.

Here, however, was a potential adventure which offered a stimulating contrast to his everyday existence. He grinned to himself as he thought of the hot-house such surroundings as the True, Barbara was amazingly skillful at outdoor sports, but he could not imagine her in overalls, a coarse straw hat and snake boots. She swung a polo stick like a man, but Dave wondered what she would do if someone were to suddenly thrust a hoe into her perfectly manicured hands.

Looking Back In Pickaway County
AT THE CLIFTONA
That much-heralded epic of the film world, "Rango," opened at the Cliftona Theatre yesterday, and captivated audiences with its magnificent powers of grand entertainment.

"Rango" is a picture without parallel. There has never been anything quite like it—either silent or talkie. It deals with the lives and habits of men and wild beasts in a part of the world—Sumatra, in the Dutch East Indies—that has never been featured-filmed before, so far as we know.

Here is no complex modern drama of the drawing room. It is modern, yes, but it is also aboriginal. The events portrayed might have happened last year or they might have happened centuries ago. The theme of "Rango" is ageless, and there lies the picture's greatness.

The story is almost as simple in structure as a nursery rhyme, yet the action is as super-charged with tense, stirring thrills as the most gunsmoke-laden of the modern underworld spine-chillers.

AT THE GRAND
Buck Jones, who plays the stellar role in "Desert Vengeance," Columbia's all-talking Western due at the Grand theatre on Friday has a new recipe for keeping domestic peace. It's this—he lets his wife beat him at bridge. At least that's what he says. But Mrs. Jones tells another story. She says that he doesn't "let" her do it.

She agrees, however, that her husband is the most daring horseman alive and says his feats in "Desert Vengeance" made her shudder. She thinks that the strong supporting cast in this picture which includes Barbara Bedford, Buck Jones, Ed Brady and others is one of the best that her husband ever had.

Howell Planning D.of C. Dry War

WASHINGTON.—The outburst of gang warfare in the nation's capital, with its trail of bullets, bloodshed and death, today revived interest in the Howell bill, drawn to make Washington a model city of law enforcement.

The series of killings here drew from Senator Howell (R) of Nebraska, author of the "model city" bill, a repitition of his charge that

Washington is a "sanctuary for bootleggers." He declared the police were making a real effort to enforce the prohibition law in the District of Columbia, but were laboring under great handicaps thru lack of proper enforcement laws and failure of the courts to cooperate. Howell blamed the action of courts here in imposing light sentences on known felons as contributing to the crime wave.

The Howell bill died in a legislative jam at the close of the last session of Congress but its author will reintroduce it next December. Howell told International News Service he would soften some of its drastic provisions but that he planned a real battle to secure its enactment.

The bill would permit the search of buildings on various grounds, not now permitted. Under existing law, as Howell pointed out, bootlegging and gambling establishments may be searched only if police or department of justice agents buy liquor or actually gamble in the place. The Howell bill would permit the issuance of search warrants on "reasonable cause", following the statutes in existence now in a majority of the states. The measure was condemned as too drastic.

"As the District of Columbia is a sanctuary for bootleggers and bootleggers can ply their trade with comparative freedom, it is not strange that gang warfare is beginning to develop in the nation's capital," said Howell. "It is not unlikely that Washington may achieve the shameful notoriety that Chicago has borne in recent years."

"Any one who has investigated the position of offenders in Washington must be aware that the majesty of the law is concentrated on the little fellow while the big fellow, with money, leads a largely charmed life. From my personal investigations it is my impression that non-enforcement of prohibition and other laws is not chargeable against the police force as it is in many other cities of the country, but it is due to the tendency of the courts to lean backward in protecting the rights of criminals and in their failure to impose appropriate sentences on convicted felons.

"So far as prohibition is concerned, the police of the capital labor under tremendous handicaps, which it is the duty of Congress to remove."

Howell declared his charges of last spring were still true. Then he declared "panderers can apply young girls of tender age with liquor wholly unafraid, as it is to the shame of Congress that such offenses are not punishable in the District of Columbia." He also declared "hotels are not beds of liquor violations with never a raid or a prosecution of the principals involved." He also said legislators were allowed to receive huge liquor supplies, with one legislation getting 13,000 quarts of liquor in a year—more than enough to give every diplomat and all their servants 20 quarts apiece.

The Nebraskan said he would renew his demand for enforcement of the dry law against embassies, but without hope of success.

locust but chickens, crow and pets thrive on them.

There will be plenty of locust to eat, too, because a small army of men will be kept at work shoveling the pests into baskets and carting them away to be burned.

Although the noise of the unwelcome invaders is terrific, the odor that accompanies them is said to be a greater nuisance.

With the rapid deforestation of the state, the locusts are finding Ohio less attractive, and, as a result, the family is a vanishing one and each brood grows smaller.

After spending 17 years underground, the locust digs up to the surface in April and then in May or June emerges in pupa form.

Its first stop is at a convenient bush or tree. After a transformation known as metamorphosis, the locust pulls itself free of its pupal skin and emerges with creamy white wings. Not long afterward they are turned to gray.

The late Abe Martin said recently, "About the only safe way to cross the street these days is with a cow." Well, that might solve that particular problem, but we don't all have cows.

If we could pay bills, but what we need is some money, but we don't have money.

It's no disgrace to be without money, but it's an awful handicap. And whether you have a lot or a little, there are times when you need more.

LOCUSTS MAY PAY VISIT TO STATE

WOOSTER, O., — Serious damage to trees in some sections may result in the invasion of eastern Ohio by 17-year locusts, according to Wooster college biologists.

In young orchards in particular the damage may be extensive, according to Dr. Warren Spencer, professor of biology.

Twigs on small trees are expected to crack off under the weight of eggs laid at random by the millions of locusts he said.

Although the efforts on large trees probably will not be permanent, the smaller ones will be seriously endangered, Dr. Spencer indicated.

Investigation at the college here and at the state experiment station has shown that the cicada, as it is known in the language of the biologist, rarely if ever stings.

The cicada, however, frequently gets the blame for stings indicated by a wasp which is a parasite on the locust, Dr. Spencer said.

Why Gambier and Kenyon college have so long been a prey to the 17-year locusts was explained in the fact that the locust prefer heavily-wooded areas.

Appearance of millions of locusts will mark the beginning of a "banquet" greater than they have ever known.

Redskins Given Calcimine Dose

The first shut-out contest of the recreation ball season was registered Thursday evening when the Coca Colas turned back the Red Men, 7 to 0. Bob Maloney on the mound for the soft-drinks, with excellent support, was too tough for the Red Men who connected safely only five times. Many fine plays in the infield, two of which were speedy double plays, featured the contest.

The Cokes, who incidentally won their second victory over the Redskins, started in the second inning by scoring a run and after that had things their own way. Only one man for the Redskins reached third base, that being Radcliff in the sixth frame. He died when Styers fanned the breeze for Maloney's only strike-out of the game.

Pinky Wilson with three singles and two walks in five trips to the rubber led hitters of both teams, while Jaggy Davis and Dutch Weller each hit twice. Weller played the best ball game he has played all year at third base.

None of the Red Men obtained more than one single. This evening the Coca Colas and the Independent Grocers will tangle in the last contest of the first round of play.

TIME TRIALS TO CUT LIST

Saturday is Date for Indianapolis Speed Tests Prior To Holiday Event.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. -- Time trials to shrink the record breaking list of seventy two cars to the starting field to forty cars which will roll away from the tape in the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30, begin Saturday, May 23.

It means that there will be a real battle of speed for the mere right to face the starter on race day.

Each car must ride four laps around the two and one half mile brick speedway against time. All alone on the track the driver and his mechanic will exert every degree of courage and speed to gain a front position in the starting line.

Cars line up for the race in the order in which they qualify in the time trial. However, the cars which qualify on Saturday, the opening day of the trials, take precedence over cars which qualify on other days of the trials no matter what speed is made.

This year is an exception, however. It is likely that there will be more cars report on Saturday than it will be possible to qualify in this case, these reporting cars will be permitted to try on Sunday under the same rules that apply to Saturday.

It is anticipated that nearly 50,000 people will witness the time trials on Sunday afternoon.

Leon Durray, veteran speedster, holds the track record for one lap on the Indianapolis course. He averaged 124.018 miles an hour for one whirl of the big oval.

Billy Arnold, winner of last year's race and who held the pole position at the start of the race, is a candidate for the pole position this year in the Miller Hartz Special he drove to victory last year. He has been turning some exceptionally fast laps in practice.

William "Shorty" Cantlon, riding a 16-cylinder Miller Special is a dark horse for qualifying speed honors. He brings his car here with a bundle of boasts but his mount is an unknown quantity to the handicappers who clock the cars in practice. Cantlon finished second to Arnold last year in a four cylinder car.

Louis Meyer, 1928 winner and American champion in 1928 and 1929, also will be bidding for first honors in his 16-cylinder Sampson Special. He was in second starting position last year.

All of these cars are conventional rear wheel drive mounts with the exception of Arnold's speed creation which is a front wheel drive car.

Any member of the family of R. R. Bales, 151 E. Main-st., is invited to be a guest of The Herald at the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

Interest Is High In Evert's Card

Matchmaker Tim Nolan of the Everts Amusement Co., believes he has arranged a splendid card for the inaugural boxing program to be presented in the new outdoor arena of the organization Friday evening.

"I have arranged series of matches in Columbus and other cities in the past few years but I don't believe any of my previous efforts will top this card in the quantity of action that will be forthcoming," he declared today.

"None of the participants are nationally famous or may never achieve ring greatness but I sincerely feel that Circleville fans will get a real run for their money from these scraps," he added.

In the feature bout of the evening, Jumping Johnny Roberts steps to the firing line to face Luther Eyer, classy young 126 pounder from a rival Columbus stable. They are to travel six rounds to a judges decision units, a kayo interrupts the proceedings in an earlier stanza.

Four other bouts, each carded for four rounds, will precede the main bout.

All of the athletes imported for this card are experienced mitt fighters. The will to win is most pronounced in several, including young Eyer and Walter Beck, younger brother of the better known Battling Babe Beck.

In Columbus, there are many railbirds who freely predict Walter Beck will soon develop into a much better fighter than his light heavyweight brother.

THE CARD

Jumping Johnny Roberts vs. Luther Eyer, bantams, six rounds.

Kid Spencer vs. Walter Beck, middleweights, four rounds.

Frankie Fouch vs. Bobby Cobbs, lightweights, four rounds.

Gene Beck vs. Eddie Durbin, welterweights, four rounds.

The foregoing comprises the rifty program which will be presented in the new outdoor sports arena of the Everts Amusement Co., the gates of which will swing wide for the first time Friday evening.

Sponsors of the mitt flung carnival believe they have arranged a splendid list of embroglies. All of the contestants are aggressive, hard-punching scrappers with reputations that stamp them as anything but shrinking violets once they don the padded mittens.

The main bout brings together two rivals who for a long time have nurtured a cordial dislike for one another. Jumping Johnny Roberts, the veteran, claims Eyer is attempting to usurp his claim to the bantamweight title of Columbus. In truth, Eyer is doing nothing else but Friday night's bout will go a long way towards deciding the issue. Both boys are in fine fettle for the melee. Each is expected to enter the ring weighing approximately 126 pounds, the bantam limit.

Gloves are expected to fly thick and fast in every one of the prelims, also. The Kid Spencer-Walter fracas should prove particularly interesting. Spencer is a real

RED BIRDS TAKE LEAD

Kenny Ash Hurls Leiboldmen To Lead in Association; Young Walsh Socked.

COLUMBUS, O., May 22.—A card had to take those Columbus Red Birds seriously today. They purged onto first place in the American association yesterday, and that was no joke—not for the champion Louisville Colonels, anyway.

wise-crackers swallowed their gups and joined in a lusty hazzah for the Columbusites after they spanked the league - leading Colonels 8 to 6 and took the undisputed leadership of the league.

The only place in Ohio where the fest wasn't enjoyed was Toledo. The staggering Mun Hens were deadlocked with Indianapolis for the basement, giving the Buckeyes state the right to claim both the top and the bottom of the league standing.

With little respect for the young man's heritage, Columbus leaped onto Ed Walsh, Jr., Colonel flinger, in the fourth inning, scored five runs, drove him from the box, and clinched the game.

Kenny Ash, who has had trouble getting started, hurled the win. Savage hitting by Purdy, Bedore, Yotter and Moore assisted him.

St. Paul, idle after the weatherman interfered in a game scheduled with Milwaukee, was in second place as a result of the Columbus victory, and the Colonels were lodged in third.

Although he allowed 14 hits, including a home run, Rosy Ryan, Toledo pitcher, stopped Indianapolis, 9 to 6. Minneapolis staged the unusual and defeated Kansas City 4 to 3 although held to five hits while the Blues managed to amass 13.

clown. But despite his eccentric deportment he is quite a good fighter.

The new arena, capable of seating 600 fans comfortably, is located opposite the Corwin-st. school.

It is now in apple and span condition, ready for the capacity crowd anticipated to be on hand for the opening.

LIGHT DELIVERY PANEL TRUCK, $555

Prominent among the thousands of concerns using large fleets of Chevrolets are many of the leaders of American industry. In fact, 73 outstanding business firms have purchased a total of 27,605 Chevrolet cars and trucks.

The reason for this preference lies in the unexcelled economy of Chevrolet cars and trucks, as proved by official cost records. These records show that 20 miles to the gallon is a common occurrence among Chevrolet cars. That oil expense is extremely low. That Chevrolet cars and trucks require only a minimum of service attention. That they give satisfactory low-cost service over exceptionally long periods of time.

Naturally, a car with such a fine record of economy represents an extremely wise investment for any buyer! Especially so, when you consider the many advantages that Chevrolet offers above and beyond economical operation. Come in and learn what these advantages are—what they mean in terms of style, comfort, safety, reliability and value.

Pickaway-co Health Topics

To the Noble Mothers of Pickaway-co
You are very much interested in the welfare of your dear and sweet little ones. You would like to see them grow up physically well and mentally bright. Is your child up to the standard of physical health? Does he like to eat the right food? If you will bring your children between the ages of 3 to 6 to your township school on the scheduled day as follows:

Monday, May 25, Pickaway.
Tuesday, May 26, Saltcreek.
Wednesday, May 27, Jackson.
Thursday, May 28, Walnut.
Friday, May 29, Washington.
Monday, June 1, Deer creek.
Tuesday, June 2, Atlanta.
Wednesday, June 3, New Holland.
Thursday, June 4, Ashville.
Friday, June 5, Scioto.
Monday, June 8, Darby.
Tuesday, June 9, Muhlenberg.
Wednesday, June 10, Madison.
Thursday, June 11, Monroe.
The hours for the examinations at each school will be from 9 to 12 a. m., and from 1 to 4 p. m.
Your local county physicians and dentists have volunteered to give them a thorough physical and dental examination and to explain to you their findings. If your child is perfect you will get a nice certificate, if not you will be advised what to do for him or to make them perfect. A stitich in time saves nine is a good old saying and worth while adopting. Many a tonsil could have been saved if it would have been checked in time. Many a child could have been living today if it would have had a thorough periodic physical and dental examination by qualified men to do it. These dear little children are our future citizens and every mother is proud to bring them up as her noble contribution. So please take advantage of these opportunities, bring your children yourself and get the information direct hand.
Please notify also the president of your P. T. A. organization or the superintendent of your township school when it will be most convenient for you to bring your children for these examinations, as we would like to reserve a special time for your children's examinations.

THE COMMITTEE OF THE PRE-SCHOOL AGE CONFERENCE

'Senior Day' Is Enjoyed

By MARGARET CARTER
Teachers of Circleville high school found it quite difficult to take attendance May 20, "Senior Day."
At last some of the seniors dressed appropriately with their usual conduct. Some in pajamas, some as farmers and as small children engaged with an all-day sucker and a doll baby.
Some remarked that they had attended high school for four years only for "Senior Day" so they might eat candy in the presence of a teacher.
The most excitement was created by Dorothy Clark, as "Mamma," Sheldon Mader, as "papa," Mid Ritt and Robert Rooney the two unruly children, who skated up and down the corridors and class rooms.
Several times the silence of the class room or study hall was broken with a human cry, "mamma."
One sailor made quite a hit with the "little girls" until he was discovered to be only Doris Peters. Nelson Lape, a typical Buster Keaton, had a terrible time with his "Easter egg" shoes and his "specks."

Mary Ryan, Virginia Nelson and Phyllis Wagner were appropriately dressed. They wore pajamas. Fifty seniors cooperated to make the "Senior Day" of '31 a grand success.
FOR CLASSIFIED readers a little money goes a long way.

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by WILLIAM Lindhoost

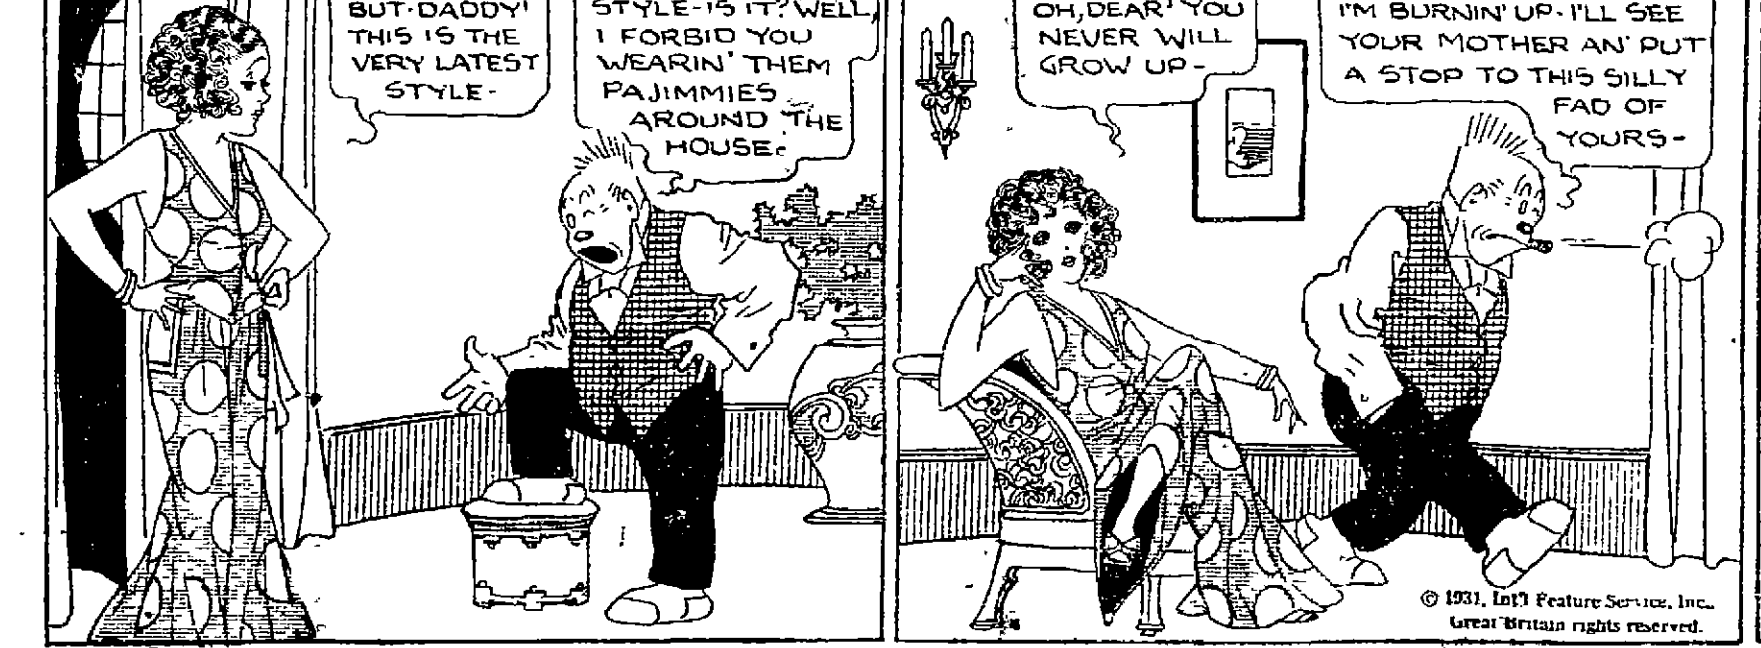

A piece of thread must be prepared for this trick in the following manner: A small glass is filled with water two teaspoonfuls of salt are added and the water is stirred until the salt has dissolved. The thread is dropped into the water, left to soak for about an hour, and taken out and thoroughly dried. The performer appears before the audience, borrows a ring, and ties one end of the thread to the ring, which is then held suspended in mid-air, and a match is applied to the thread. Although the thread burns, it will retain sufficient strength to hold the ring. This is explained by the salt water forming a crystallized surface on the thread, which gives it double strength.

PYTHIAN SISTERS MEET THURSDAY
After the business session of the Pythian Sisters at their regular meeting, Wednesday evening in the Masonic Temple, an interesting program was presented with "Uncle Billy Schooler" Grand Deputy Chancellor-at-large for the State of Ohio, the main speaker of the evening. An usual program of music was given by the Daley School of Music.

The first selection, a banjo solo, by Professor Daley of the Daley School of Music was followed by an illustrated lecture by "Uncle Billy Schooler." The lecture, both interesting and beneficial, showed the work of the Pythians at their homes in Springfield. Mr. Schooler was assisted by Mrs. Schooler, Miss Anderson, Miss Rebecca and Rev. Snibely of New Concord.
Selections were played by guitar and banjo orchestras composed of Circleville pupils of the music school. A very interesting Temple History given by Earl Pearce, concluded the program.

INSPECTION OF O. E. S. AT BAINBRIDGE
Circleville chapter is invited to attend the inspection of Bainbridge chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, to be held in the Masonic Temple, in Bainbridge, Wednesday, at 7:30 p. m.

Jackie Coogan's Brother Scorns Advice of Star

NEW YORK. — The new Coogan boy doesn't want any advice, thank you, from that famous movie actor elder brother of his.
Jackie tried to give counsel, when young Bobbie was making "Skippy." And it didn't set well at all.
"Say," said Bobbie to his big brother, "I wish you weren't here."
After that set-to, Jackie was kept off the lot and Bobbie was allowed to develop his own talents.
Bobbie is a lusty kid now. But when he was an infant his parents feared he wouldn't live. He weighed five pounds at birth, and didn't talk until his fourteenth month. He was fifteen months old when he started to walk.
Many fathers and mothers would be perfectly willing to have the same delay in their progeny if they could become the grand little youngsters that Bobbie is on the screen at five years.

Much difficulty was encountered in making one scene in the picture. It was a fight between Bobbie and Jackie Searle, the boy who had the sissy part. Bobbie had played with Searle (no sissy in real life) for several months, and liked him. So he wouldn't fight — at least, not realistically enough for screen purposes.
"I can't hit him. I like him."

CHAMP BOUT ON TONIGHT

Battalino in Best Shape in Career; La Barba Carries Odds of 13 To 10.

Conklin's Sport Comment
By Les Conklin

NEW YORK, May 22.—Lion-hearted "Bat" Battalino, holder of the featherweight title since 1929, will be in grave danger of losing his crown tonight when he meets Fidel Labarba, most formidable contender for the title, over the fifteen-round championship distance at Madison Square Garden.

In Labarba, the champion is facing one of the master boxers of this day and age. Brainy, cool and calculating, and equipped with a keen ring generalship gleaned from eleven years of boxing, the former Los Angeles newsie is a vest-pocket edition of Tommy Leighton. And for his weight, he hits harder than Tommy.

If there is to be a knockout, however, the champion likely will be the one to score it. His wallops are more devastating than Labarba's and he has never been stopped himself.

Fidel is a 13 to 10 favorite, with considerable last-minute fluctuation in the odds. Early this week the Californian figured to go to the post at 2 to 1 choice, but boxing scribes, who subsequently watched Battalino work out, found him to be in grand shape for the first time in nearly six months as the result a week of strenuous training.

Thick Robes Of Tiniest Beads For Neck Wear

PARIS.—For once, summer and chiffon are not synonymous, from all the romantic looking evening gowns appearing at chic houses in Paris. Of course, later on, hot dog-days and nights may bring out the filmiest of fabrics, but for the moment, there are far more exciting materials on tap.
There is satin that is highly lustrous, dignified and as important looking as anything our great grandmas ever stepped into. Nothing is more romantic than heavy white or ivory satin and every smart gathering can number at least one or two of them.
And then there is crepe printed in bold flower design of plain colors, yellow and green especially and Patou's opaline shades which are special favorites.
Worth uses half beige and half dark brown crepe for a lovely evening gown with small flat bows both back and front and an interesting decollete to tie in two tones together.
Lanvin uses lace in two shades, pale blue bordered in matching satin for the bodice and the white skirt is in white of the same design and the sash and bow of black faille.

Little Black Film Star Shelved Because of Size

NEW YORK. — A star known the country over at the age of three, and now, eleven years old, flung on the discard.

That's the story of Farina, otherwise Allen Clayton Hoskins, the Negro boy who suffered outrages in the "Our Gang" comedies, not the least of those outrages being the necessity of dressing up as a girl, even to kinky pigtail.

Nine years ago there was practically nothing to this dot but huge, rolling eyes and a mass of kinky woolen hair. It was christened Farina, dressed in rags and immediately hit the face with a custard pie. Today, a spindly colored boy of eleven, Master Hoskins is graduated from the gang because he is no longer little and cute.

Few actors can say that at three they were knocking 'em dead all over the United States—that people by the thousands went to picture theatres to see them instead of the feature. Farina can. Farina fascinated us because he was the perfect incarnation of poor, witless man's struggle against inscrutable and very rough and dirty, fate. What a sucker Farina's pictures made of the still movie 'plots.'

BROTHERHOOD HOLDS MEETING
The regular semi-monthly session of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood was held last evening in the parish house.

After the regular business procedure, the meeting was recessed for the half-hour social session, during which time George Roof and his committee of nine members served a buffet lunch of ham sandwiches, Swiss cheese sandwiches, spring onions, radishes and coffee.

The entire evening after the social session was given over to Prof. Castner, of the extension department of Capital University, who lectured on "Capital University at Work and at Play," illustrating his lecture with moving pictures.

The executive committee has not yet announced its plans for the summer meetings, but will have the programs out in the near future.
